STRESSES NEED OF PROFESSIONAL STATUS FOR ALL TEACHERS

H. C. Newland, President of Canadian Teachers Federation, Now in Session Here, Says Teaching Must Take its Place Beside Medicine, Dentistry and Law.

"The greatest task of the Canadian Teachers' Federation is that of professionalizing the field of education," stated H. C. Newland, M.A., LL.B., of Edmonton, president of the federation, in his presidential address this morning to the delegates here in convention.

"The performance of this task is conditioned in two ways: 1. Our Canadian people must have a far stronger belief in the paramount importance of education than exists to-day, and not only must they be led really to believe in education but also to accord to teachers a really professional status. To a far greater extent than ever before it will be necessary that teachers assume the leadership in dealing with educational problems and in framing educational policy. There can be no doubt that if the people of Canada really believe in education as they believe in medicine or dentistry, or law, they would expect expert guidance from teachers and would also pay the cost of education far more willingly and gracefully."

PREMIER TO ASK CHANCE TO WIND UP RATES FIGHT

Oliver Leaves For Nelson; Plans Simple, Businesslike Appeal to Voters

Sloan and Hart to Accompany Him; Pooley Will Enter Fight Shortly

Premier Oliver will meet the electors of Nelson on Friday night and ask them to give him an opportunity of finishing his long freight rate fight. The Premier is spending to-day in Vancouver, having suddenly changed his plans and left here for the mainland last night, and this evening he will start for the interior. His first meeting has been tentatively arranged for Friday and he expects to hold two or three rallies next week.

Mr. Oliver's appeal to the electors of Nelson, under plans agreed upon at final Cabinet meetings held here before his departure yesterday, will be simple and businesslike. He intends to tell the Nelson people in plain terms that if they want the freight rate fight to go on they will return him and he will explain what the Government has done and hopes to do in its effort to secure rate equalization in the West.

Opposition talk of the Government offering handsome concessions to Nelson in attempt to bribe the electors is without foundation, it was learned to-day. The Government, it was made clear, has no intention of spending $750,000 on the construction of a bridge in Nelson as suggested by a Conservative speaker. The advisability of building a normal school in Nelson, of course, has been under consideration by the Government for years and it has always been planned to proceed with this project when the accommodation in other normal schools is fully exhausted. This condition, it is stated, is rapidly approaching. These facts will be laid frankly before the Nelson electors by the Premier. Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, and Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, will act as the Premier's lieutenants in the Nelson fight. Mr. Sloan is already in Nelson, and will speak with the Premier, Friday, Mr. Hart expects to start for the interior at the week end. If his presence is considered desirable Hon. J. D. MacLean, Provincial Secretary, and Hon. A. M. Manson, Attorney-General, also will join their leader in the interior city.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR DEDICATES CAIRN TO HONOR OF NAVIGATORS

At Cradle of British Power on North Pacific Illustrious Memory of Eighteenth Century Seamen is Commemorated To-day.

One hundred and twenty-eight years ago in March of this year the flag of Castile and Leon went down for the last time at Nootka Sound. With it sank the sun of Spain's hope of a mighty power between the Golden Gate and the glaciers of Alaska.

To commemorate that notable incident a select party to-day at Friendly Cove, Nootka Sound, headed by Lieutenant-Governor Nichol, and comprising British Columbia's foremost historian, Judge Howay, paid tribute to the eighteenth century navigators. They linked in an all-embracing mission those whom science, and discovery, and navigation had brought to the northwestern margin of the world's vastest ocean.

CENOTAPH PLAN ASSUMING SHAPE

Design by Sidney Marsh Will Be Recommended
Site Proposed is Northeastern Corner of Parliament Square

Definite progress on the Cenotaph scheme here can now be reported by the executive committee to the citizens as a result of its activities gathering data on design and suitable sites.

The committee has called a meeting at the City Hall to-morrow evening, when the citizens will be asked to approve a design for a memorial from the plans of Sidney Marsh, a British sculptor. The site to be recommended will be at the northeastern corner of Parliament Square, close to the flagstaff.

Lindley Crease, K.C., chairman of the memorial committee, says the cost of the project is a reasonable one, and well within the estimate which the committee may expect to submit to a public body. He said the design and site were approved by Mr. Crease, and the organization of a committee to secure subscriptions could be taken in hand at once. The committee, which has worked most industriously on the scheme since May 1, has had before it a model of the design which the memorial committee has recommended. The memorial has been acting in accordance with the general citizens' meeting called nearly four months ago at the initiative of the Victoria Women's Institute and other women's bodies in this city.

It would establish a central board to control international traffic and the narcotic drug evil.

MILLIONS ARE HOMELESS IN LARGE AREAS OF CHINA AS RESULT OF GREAT FLOODS

Thousands of Refugees Pouring Into City of Peking; Great Number of Villages Submerged; 50,000 Said to be Conservative Estimate of Deaths in Disasters.

Shanghai, Aug. 12.—Millions have been rendered homeless and at least 50,000 persons have been drowned in devastating floods which are sweeping widespread areas of China, submerging tens of thousands of villages. Thousands of refugees are pouring into Peking. It is impossible to get even an approximate estimate of the fatalities, but 50,000 is said to be a conservative estimate. Unusually devastating floods with accompanying widespread destruction of property have been reported from various sections of China during the last few weeks. Late in July there were serious inundations in the provinces of Chihli and Honan. On Saturday last further floods were reported from Kwangsi and Sinkiang, but it was reported that the loss of life had been up until that time comparatively small.

LOCAL CONTROL OF HARBOR FACILITIES FINDS SUPPORT; WAS ADVOCATED YEARS AGO

Voluntary Board With Paid Commissioner Could Increase Business of Port; Plan Was Supported by Old Board of Trade in 1919.

Support for the creation of local control of shipping facilities in Victoria with particular reference to the Ogden Point Docks and the Esquimalt Dry Docks is offered from many sections following the discussion on the establishment of a Harbor Board in Victoria. In 1919 it is appropriate to note the old Board of Trade went on record as favoring the establishment of a Harbor Board, and the arguments put forward by the late J. J. Shalcross on that occasion are very similar to those advanced to-day.

In February 1919, W. G. Ross, chairman of the Board of Harbor Commissioners of Montreal addressed the Board of Trade and related how the centralization of authority and application of business methods in a public spirited way placed Montreal among the foremost ports of the world.

NO NEW SCHEME
The scheme is no new one to Victoria. In 1915 Louis Coste, eminent Canadian engineer, told Victoria business men that Victoria would never become an important port until it had a harbor board.

Heads of Victoria's big department stores, business and real estate men have voiced their approval of some form of harbor board for Victoria and it is interesting to note that John Dean, well known for his readiness to oppose anything that might add to taxation has given his approval to the scheme for local control of harbor facilities.

VOLUNTARY BOARD
J. W. Spencer, of David Spencer Limited, interviewed this morning, stated:

"I think some form of voluntary board composed of responsible citizens should be established. It would be necessary to have a paid manager or secretary whose duties it would (concluded on page 2.)

SKIDWAY WILL BE BIG FAIR FEATURE

Four Days of Racing Attractions at Willows Exhibition
Stock Entries Are Particularly Heavy This Year

The largest skidway ever seen in Victoria and four days of good racing are attractions pointed to by Secretary W. H. Mearns, in addition to a heavy entry in every section and reservations for every inch of space in the Exhibition Buildings, as promising unqualified success for the Provincial Fall Fair which opens at the Willows next Monday. The trotting races will be over the half mile track with North Pacific Racing Association rules to govern. There will be five starters in each race, two horses under the same ownership or control or trained in the same stable being allowed to enter. Drivers will be licensed under N.P.R.A. rules and will wear silk jackets and caps. Horses having won twice during the season in 2:25 pace and 2:24 trot respectively will be promoted to 2:20 pace and 2:19 trot respectively.

These races will be held August 12, 20, 21 and 22 and are expected to prove a magnet for horse lovers. Workmen are now busy at the Fair grounds getting everything in readiness. Not only will the attractions be on a greater scale than anything ever attempted before, but the stock entries represent the best exhibit of Canadian entries that have been seen in Victoria.

The generous co-operation of manufacturers, merchants, farmers, gardeners and other organizations on the stand has made it possible for the association to promise those who visit the Fair that it will be a real successful community exhibition.

SERIOUS FIRE AT ALBERNI SUMMIT

Force of Fire Wardens and Railway Gangs Attempt Control

A serious fire is raging at Arrow-smith, on the highest point of the road and railway between Cameron Lake and the Alberni. It reached serious dimensions last evening, burning across the highway near the summit, and a force of fire wardens and men from the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway worked hard in endeavoring to get it under control. Late advice states that the outbreak has crossed the track, and is burning towards Arrowsmith station on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo line, from which it is distant about a quarter of a mile. Owing to the fine timber in that neighborhood, there is considerable anxiety as to the extent of the conflagration, and it is feared it will not be under control until the weather changes.

LOCAL CONTROL OF HARBOR FACILITIES FINDS SUPPORT

be to carry out what the board decided would be in the best interests of the port.

"I can see many advantages which would result from the establishment of such a board. It would enable us to get quicker action on anything that would be of advantage to shippers at this port, and the fact that we had a board in Victoria would mean that there was somebody on the spot charged with the responsibility of studying the needs of shippers and in developing shipping business.

"In the past years we have to my knowledge lost repair work at the Esquimalt dock on account of the high rates. If the new dock were under the control of a board with powers to regulate the rates, it could be handled in a way that might lead to much larger business than is being secured at present.

The speaker emphasized that the port's advantage could be much better handled by a board who would be acquainted with the needs of the port and who were on the ground, rather than as at present, controlled by people who were thousands of miles away and, besides, not as deeply interested as were those who had their investments at the spot.

A board consisting of a number of citizens who would give their advice voluntarily could do a great deal for the port. A secretary or paid officer could be appointed to carry out the policy determined on would be necessary. As the port developed and business warranted it, the staff would of necessity be enlarged. Starting in a small way and developing the port and enlarging the commission's powers as required was the right policy to adopt.

TO INCREASE TONNAGE

A. J. Watson, manager of the Hudson's Bay store in Victoria, remarked: "I certainly think we should have somebody who should be responsible for securing business for the Ogden Point Dock and the drydock. The whole question is one of tonnage, even it is secured at a slight cost. It would be far better to have someone to secure this business than leave things as they are at the present time. There should be an interest in the port, but no expensive machine to eat up any advantage in harbor charges that we have at the present time."

Mr. Draper, Leeming pointed to the success of the Publicity Bureau in advertising the establishment of a harbor board, and was ready to hold a provincial convention shortly after the Fall session of the Legislature. At this meeting a permanent party leader will be chosen. The session will give Mr. Pooley an opportunity to prove his right to maintain the leadership.

BOARD OF TRADE APPROVED

At a meeting of the old Board of Trade on Jan. 10, 1919, creation of a harbor board with wide powers to control and regulate the trade of the port was advocated in a resolution. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., was interviewed with a view to getting Federal action in the matter. The proposal was that the personnel of the harbor board should consist of three Dominion Government nominees, a representative of the Board of Trade and the Mayor an ex-officio member.

The late J. J. Shallock brought the question before the Board of Trade and moved a resolution which was seconded by the late Col. E. G. Prior.

"There are many people in Victoria who seem to think business will come our way without being sought after," said Mr. Shallock. "A certain amount will come that way but without a centralized and organized effort to promote trade Victoria will be hopelessly outclassed by the neighboring cities of the Northwest."

FIRST PORT NO ARGUMENT

The late Mr. Shallock stated the fact that Victoria was the first and last port of call for ocean liners was not in itself a strong inducement for trade. He illustrated by citing the case of Plymouth, Plymouth, Southampton and Queenstown which were first ports of call yet subordinate to Liverpool in actual trade, outside of the handling of mail and passengers.

"The whole problem resolves itself into this consideration," he argued, "can we make the transshipment process economical. If we can the direct development of this port in a ratio with its geographical position and other natural advantages justify is assured, and we need not worry about the future."

"We have docks worth $5,000,000 at the harbor entrance built by the Federal Government," he said. "They will be a tremendous aid in the trade expansion programme that we contemplate." One of the first essential of a successful port is dispatch, and Victoria has got to have up-to-date and time-saving facilities for handling freight and efficient machinery and organization to handle the freight after it leaves the stiffs.

Mr. Shallock referred to the Mersey docks and harbor board, a voluntary organization and an example of how dock regulations were attended to with efficiency. It was this board whose entire personnel was made of voluntary workers who considered it a great honor to serve which was largely responsible for the enormous growth of Liverpool's trade. Its operations were an incentive to the establishment of industries all along the Mersey and the Manchester ship canal. London, too, with its dock board gave an illustration of what could be achieved by organized effort.

HANDS TIED
"There is no use in having the port under the control of an official of a Government Department, who simply carried out instructions from Ottawa, and is given no latitude in working for the benefit of the port. Mr. Shallock asserted. If a railway company under Government control has those powers regulation will be along selfish lines probably that will mitigate the docks. We can never get trade unless we organize a body with a determination to remove the obstacles now in the way and go after business in season and out of season. I believe there are men in Victoria who would eagerly give their services for the good of the port. But they will not act if they are to be merely rubber stamps. They must be given full authority."

BRITAIN SENDS WAR VESSELS TO ALEXANDRIA AND RED SEA PORT

was given by a lieutenant of the Sudanese Arab Mounted Rifles, who instructed a sergeant to have the men fire over the heads of the Egyptian soldiers who were attacking them.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

London, Aug. 13.—London newspapers this morning made a big display of the disturbances in the Sudan, which they attributed to a conspiracy by interested persons in Egypt aiming to oust the British from the Sudan and establish Egyptian rule over it.

An agitation to this end has been in progress for some months, the main organizers, it is said, being the White Flag Society in the Sudan. It is recalled that the Egyptian Premier, Zagloul Pasha, told the Chamber in June that Egypt would assist upon complete evacuation of the Sudan by Great Britain and after that the British Ministry announced in Parliament that the British on no account would renounce their responsibility to the Sudan.

DELAY FORESEEN

The editorial writers, while not believing the present trouble will have serious consequences, foresee a possible regrettable delay in settling the Egyptian problem, and even a conceivable cancellation of the pending negotiations with Zagloul. Editorial opinion strongly supports the government in its Sudan policy.

RULING BY UNION HEAD WAS DEFEATED

Progressive Forces in the Minority at Printers' Meeting in Toronto

Toronto, Aug. 13.—Progressive forces are in the minority at the sixty-ninth annual convention of the International Typographical Union. It was shown at a roll call here yesterday when a ruling that a resolution moved by P. M. Draper, Ottawa, was contrary to the laws of the union, President Charles P. Howard gave the delegates an opportunity to learn the strength of the forces supporting himself and President-elect James Lynch of Syracuse.

The convention, by a vote of 158 to 144, refused to sustain the ruling of Mr. Howard against the seating of J. W. Lapine, delegate for Galt, Ont., whom the credentials committee had ruled was elected after the date set in the bylaws for the annual election of delegates and therefore not entitled to a vote in the convention.

Mr. Draper moved that Mr. Lapine be seated and a section of the bylaws was quoted which it was claimed gave the convention the right to seat Mr. Lapine and the ruling of President Howard was finally appealed from. The vote was taken after President Howard had left the chair and delivered a lengthy address in which he said the point raised involved a vital and important question and that the bylaw under which he had ruled against Mr. Lapine was mandatory as to the date of election of delegates. It guaranteed the franchise of all members of the union, he said, and he believed its purpose should be observed.

BEARS ARE SEEN IN MACKENZIE PARK

Unusual Numbers Interest Visitors, Says Bella Coola Dispatch

Bella Coola, Aug. 13.—There are unusual numbers of bears in Mackenzie Park this summer and black ones, big brown fellows and dignified grizzlies are providing tourists with plenty of thrills.

Two members of the bruin family sauntered into town and yawned greetings to several visitors. Another big one was observed having an interesting time pawing an ant hill to pieces while three tourists saw a black bear playing on the tide flats near Bella Coola wharf.

Members of the crew of the fishery patrol boat Newhawk saw two at the hot springs, while a provincial policeman and a companion, escorting a prisoner, saw three bears at the Indian reservation not far from the Mackenzie Highway.

Children on their way to Sunday school several weeks ago met several.

AT A SMOKEHOUSE

A black bear was observed sniffing about a smokehouse where salmon were being cured.

Mr. Brewster, a transportation man, encountered five in one day. George Powers met a female bear and cub on Mackenzie Highway and a day or so later encountered a yearling near his camp.

Residents of Bella Coola and district are not afraid of the big fellows, it being a matter of right of the animals unless they were first attacked.

Reports from Nelson to-day indicate that the by-election on August 23 will be one of the most spirited in the history of the interior. Conservative leaders are assembling from all over the country to Nelson now headed by Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Federal organizer of the party. R. H. Pooley, newly-elected Conservative House leader, is holding himself in readiness to leave here for Nelson the moment he is required.

"As many of the coast Conservatives as are considered necessary will go to Nelson," Mr. Pooley told The Times to-day. "We intend to fight this election to a finish. No stone will be left unturned in our effort to prevent Mr. Oliver's re-election to the Legislature. The full weight of our party will be thrown against him. I am just waiting for a telegram from Nelson, and when it arrives I shall start for the interior immediately."

The Conservative party is planning now to hold a provincial convention shortly after the Fall session of the Legislature. At this meeting a permanent party leader will be chosen. The session will give Mr. Pooley an opportunity to prove his right to maintain the leadership.

He emphasized the importance of a constant survey and review of lines of communication between the various Dominions, and said that in case of war it was most important that convoys should pass in and out of Halifax and be given absolute protection. Commander Parker said that due to conditions of the disarmament conference at Washington, Great Britain would not be able to send ships over to do this work.

STAR RADIATION
Addressing the physicists of the association, A. S. Eddington of London, Eng., recognized as second only to Einstein in matters of relativity, made known his theory of the outflow of radiation from a star.

The zoologists were quite interested in the matter laid before them by Professor W. K. Gregory and M. Hellman on the Dentition of Dryopithecus and the origin of man.

NAVAL DEFENCE IS SUBJECT OF SPEECH

Capt. Parker of H.M.S. Repulse Deals With Canada's Course

Halifax, Aug. 13.—Canadian were told that the time would come when there would be no "O Canada" to sing if the Dominion did not take measures for its naval defence, by Captain Henry W. Parker, C.B., senior officer of the British battle-cruiser Repulse, of the Special Service Squadron encircling the world, when he addressed the Navy Day luncheon of the Rotary Club here.

The captain's warning followed the singing of patriotic songs at the opening of the luncheon, and after Major-General Thacker, General Officer Commanding the Halifax District, had sounded a similar declaration.

EMPIRE INSURANCE
The navy had been referred to as insurance of the Empire.

"Your Minister of Defence," said Captain Parker, "has said the navy was the best form of insurance."

PEOPLE IN TENNESSEE CUT OFF FROM WORLD

Toronto, Aug. 12.—Colonies of white people isolated in the Tennessee mountains, still use the same methods of agriculture, tanning of leather, spinning, weaving and cooking which were in vogue when the district was settled over a century ago. This was shown at a meeting of the anthropology section of the British Association here to-day by Miss Isabel Gordon. Although these activities have remained practically stable, well marked peculiarities have been developed in certain directions due to the prolonged isolation from contact with advancing civilization, it was shown.

Dail Dealing With New Boundary Bill

Dublin, Aug. 12.—President Cosgrave introduced in the Dail Eireann yesterday a bill similar to that presented in the British House of Commons for legally settling a boundary commission under Article 12 of the Free State Treaty, for the delimitation of the boundary between Ulster and the Irish Free State. This bill also is for the purpose of ratifying President Cosgrave's agreement with Premier MacDonald.

The Dail voted sixty-four to forty in favor of the first reading of the bill. The national group voted for the motion on receiving Mr. Cosgrave's promise that the measure would not be proceeded with until the British bill had been passed.

President Cosgrave announced that when the Dail had dealt with the bill, he proposed to move adjournment until October 21.

PRINTER HAS CHANCE TO BE MADE KING ON THRONE OF ALBANIA

But Success in Kingly Business Now Seems to Depend on Financial Ability

Chicago, Aug. 12.—"A pig herder once became king of Bulgaria and a common soldier got to be king of Sweden."

This is the challenge to the kidders and the scorners thrown back by an outwardly prosaic, gray-haired printer, Frederick T. O. Wood, candidate for the throne of Albania.

STARTED BY JOSEPH

The Albania dream flashed out brilliantly last Winter when Wood heard a lecturer describe to him the Balkan trouble spot which has since the great war began and which offered its crown in vain last year to the king, Marry Sinclair. Wood thought he could handle the toughest Balkan territory on the map, and said so.

Then one of his friends, he says, wrote a letter nominating him for the king job, addressing it to M. Pierre Gugliamini, agent diplomatique de l'Albanie, at Bucharest, Rumania. Now there comes back to Wood a message from M. Gugliamini, saying he is interested in the description of Wood's plans and his qualifications. There is a chance for success in the kingly venture, he suggests, provided only that funds are forthcoming to finance the campaign. There's the only hitch. Business in the printing trade just now is a trifle slow. Yet Wood is not entirely disheartened.

"If those fellows back in history could make a position for themselves, I don't see what's to prevent a competent mechanical engineer who has seen the world, such as I am. I think it might be an advantage on all sides if Albania could get somebody to give her a square deal and steer her in the direction of progress."

TRAVELED THE WORLD

The printing job at present is just a pot boiler, to keep things going at home in the fourth floor rear flat over a bakery on Wells Street. Wood has traveled the world as an engineer, about twenty years ago he helped install engines in a Russian torpedo boat and he remained in the service during the war with Japan. At Port Arthur he was a lieutenant, commanding a boat, as he says, for the "Russians." During the great war, he helped to build and operate merchant ships.

Wood is forty-nine years old, born in Kansas and reared in Ohio. Mrs. Wood doesn't care for the prospect of being queen. She's more interested in her Persian cat and in their kitchen which bring $20 a piece.

ABLE TO MAKE SOAP IN NUMEROUS FORMS

Prof. McBain, Bristol, Eng., Tells British Association Members About Work

Toronto, Aug. 12.—Soap in the cake is only one variety. Transparent soap, soap in six-sided crystals, soap in fibres, liquid soap, soap in solution and soap in jellies are a few forms of the suddy material which have been prepared by Prof. J. W. McBain of Bristol University, expert on the chemistry of colloids and soaps.

Marvelous as is the average drug store assortment of large and small shapes of cakes, perfumed soaps of all colors and all consistencies, they are only a few twin brothers in the enormous family of soaps which Prof. McBain created to prove his point that the same kind of matter may exist in many different forms, depending upon the conditions prevailing at and after its formation. Telling of his researches at a meeting of the chemical section of the British Association here to-day, he said: "Soaps form a unique material for the precise investigation of the relations between a number of interesting states of matter, and they will evidence in favor of the theory that any given substance can be produced in the form of crystals, given the proper treatment, or can be brought into the class of colloidal solutions, permanent suspensions, of which milk is an example.

The work with soap in the jelly and solution form indicates that properties of matter can be continuously varied, depending upon the temperature and the relative concentrations of the substances in the mixture. Prof. McBain cited data which enable the experimenter to predict the condition of the soap after different methods of treatment.

Factors which limit the speed at which soap is formed in chemical plants have been investigated by Prof. McBain, whose data reveal the best possible conditions of stirring and acidity, two important factors in a given time.

All animal and vegetable fats, when heated with alkali, are converted into soap and glycerine, and thus soap is a simply chemical product which can easily be studied in the laboratory. Discussing the conditions which favor its formation, Prof. McBain said: "One of these factors is the extent to which the fat is emulsified or broken up into fine droplets. The degree of emulsification in turn, depends on the vigor with which the mixture is stirred, since the greater the amount of fat emulsified, and hence the more soap formed in a given time. But stirring increases the speed of soap formation only up to a certain point; beyond this, no matter how much more rapidly the mixture is stirred, no increase in the speed of soap formation results.

DEGREE OF ACIDITY
The professor has studied also the effect of the degree of acidity on the speed of soap formation. From his results, he is able to predict in a given mixture how the acidity will affect the speed of transformation. Prof. McBain's work is a further step in the application of strictly scientific principles to the business of soapmaking, and it eliminates rule of thumb methods in two particulars. It has significance in theoretical chemistry also.

Crude Petroleum Output of Canada $522,018 in Year

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The production of crude petroleum in Canada in 1923 was 170,169 barrels, valued at $522,018, as compared with 179,068 barrels valued at $611,176 in the previous year, a decline of approximately 9,000 barrels. The average value per barrel received by operators in the producing provinces during 1923 was: New Brunswick, $3.04; Ontario, $3; Alberta, $4.23.

These figures appear in a bulletin issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

NEW DIRECTORY TO AID IMMIGRANTS

Suggestion For Western Canada is Made by Saskatoon Official

Saskatoon, Aug. 12.—A directory of new Canadian communities in the West, to be kept on hand by employment offices and boards of trade throughout Canada, is suggested by Dr. Arthur Wilson, city health officer here. He points out that there have been cases this year of foreigners coming to Canada, unable to speak the language and without relatives or friends, who wandered about until they found compatriots and employment. Dr. Wilson suggests that in such cases the immigrant could be directed to a community of his own race immediately on arrival.

CHANGES URGED IN EDUCATION SYSTEM

Vancouver Plan is to Have Two Aldermen Named on School Board

Vancouver, Aug. 12.—That two members of the City Council should be appointed each year on the School Board with full powers to act, was a recommendation City Solicitor Williams and Controller Pilkington, on behalf of the City Council, presented to the Education Survey Commission at its session here yesterday afternoon. The resolution of the City Council also asked that the total cost of the administration and general conduct of technical and high schools should be borne by the Provincial Government; that an age limit should be placed on Oriental pupils attending the city schools; and that a charge should be made on pupils over school age.

The administrative staff of the various School Boards was condemned out of hand by A. E. Craddock, secretary of the Associated Property Owners, as inefficient and overpaid, in a brief verbal statement made to the commission. He also presented a lengthy written statement.

The cost of elementary and secondary education in Canada, it was urged, is becoming a very serious impost on the people. The actual cost in 1901 was only $11,044,925, while in 1921 this cost had grown to $112,976,542, an increase of 923 per cent. The increase in the school population was only eighty per cent. The burden of taxation had become so heavy that property owners everywhere were forfeiting title to their property to an extent that was becoming alarming.

The cost of education in British Columbia, per pupil, based on the average attendance, in 1921 was $103.73, the highest of any Province in the Dominion, according to the statements. The Associated Property Owners, among other things, recommended: That the duties of the municipal inspector should be more clearly defined; that dual inspection be dispensed with and this left entirely in the hands of the Provincial Government; that all estimates be prepared under joint supervision of the trustees and municipal council, prior to final submission to the council for approval; that the present curriculum be made more adaptable to local conditions.

PRICES ARE HIGHER AT FUR AUCTION

Increases Over Last Year Noted at Event in City of Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Aug. 12.—With sixty accredited outside fur buyers representing the leading furriers of London, Paris, Germany, the United States and Canada present, Winnipeg yesterday assumed its old-time importance as the centre of the industry on this continent. Bidding was brisk at the auction sale of raw furs, and practically all lines showed increases over last year's prices. The highest price of the day was $177.50, paid for a silver fox skin, while $107 was realized for a fine specimen of the cross fox variety. Weasels and silver fox sold at thirty per cent. advances, while cross-fox skins increased fifty per cent. Muskrats and beaverkins remained unchanged.

532,400 ACRES OF POTATOES IN CANADA

That is 1924 Area; B.C. Cherries Marketed Under Good Conditions

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—Approximately 532,400 acres of land are under cultivation in Canada for potatoes this year, as compared with 655,300 acres last year, according to estimated figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In British Columbia indications point to a lighter crop than last year. On the prairies it is expected the vegetable crop will be almost normal, except in Alberta, where lower acreage and general dry weather will reduce the crop. Small and tender fruits have practically all been marketed in British Columbia. While there was not a large crop of cherries, the marketing conditions were generally satisfactory. The tender crop of fruit is short, owing to frost at blossom time. Weather conditions in Ontario have been favorable for all tender fruits and in some districts the crop in general will be an average one.

WHEAT SAWFLY DAMAGE

Saskatoon, Aug. 12.—Wheat stem sawfly is reported to be doing as high as fifty per cent damage to some crops in the Baymore, Saskatchewan district. Wheat is filling out rapidly in the district and the average yield will be higher than was estimated during the dry spell.

SPOILS OLD DREAM OF ENDLESS SPACE

Dr. L. Silberstein Says Science Proves Universe Has Bounds

Rochester Man Addresses Mathematical Physicists of British Association

Toronto, Aug. 12.—Unlimited space is only poets' license. The boundless realms of the ether have been bounded. No longer can one take off into space and fly, and fly, and fly. After flying for so far, he would crash headlong into the floor, walls or ceiling of the universe, as the case may be.

Further astronomical confirmation for his theory that the cosmos in which little Mother Earth finds herself in distinctly limited in extent was presented for the consideration of mathematical physicists of the British Association here to-day by Dr. Ludwik Silberstein, consulting mathematician to a Rochester firm and an authority on the subject of relativity.

DECLARES IT PROVED

Dr. Silberstein did not present his argument as a hypothesis. He proved it. His methods are not those of the Grecian philosophers, nor does he quote the writings of Moses. He puts in the necessary formulae and symbols, adds a few figures previously provided by the telescope and spectroscopic, shakes them well, and out pops the result: True, the figure that tumbles off the adding machine is quite large—so large, in fact, that there need be no fears of planets bouncing against the wall.

Think how far it is from the earth to the sun. Then think of 134. Next imagine ten times ten times ten, done eleven times. Then multiply them all together and try and comprehend the product. It looks more like an echo than anything else, and it might hurt to try too hard. This, no less, is the breadth of the universe from East to West, also its length from North to South, and its dimension up and down.

So sure is Dr. Silberstein of his celestial survey that he gives as the radius of the sphere of the universe, based on the latest measurements of constant for certain stellar clusters, the figure 6.7 times ten million million astronomical units, the astronomical unit being the distance from the earth to the sun, selected by astronomers as a convenient yardstick. Not "6," or even "about 7," but just "6.7."

EINSTEIN THEORY

The scientist derives his formula by applying the Einstein idea to the "Doppler effect" in the light from distant stars. The Doppler principle in physics is illustrated by the change in pitch of the whistle of a locomotive as it speeds towards and then flashes past an observer. As the locomotive is approaching, more vibrations strike the ear in a given interval of time than are actually produced by the whistle, and the result is that the note appears to be higher in tone. As the engine passes the bystander, however, the waves of sound are drawn out, and the note falls in pitch. The same phenomenon takes place in the case of light from stars which are approaching, or receding from the earth at a high speed. The frequency of vibration of the light appears higher than it actually is in the one case, and lower in the other.

SPEED CALCULATED

This results in a slight shifting of the lines on the spectrum obtained from the star, in comparison with the location of the stripes in the laboratory. By measuring the displacement of lines, the speed of approach or recession of the star can be calculated. Further modifications in this basic principle are introduced in the case of the more distant stars by the gravitational theory of light developed by Einstein, and it is by taking these irregularities in the Doppler shift into account that Dr. Silberstein constructs the foundation on which to build up his equations and data.

He has applied his formula to ten groups in the sky, eight of which are "globular clusters." The other two are the "Magellanic clouds." From each of these he gets a result for the dimensions of the universe, and although they differ among themselves, they are in sufficient agreement to enable him to estimate the accuracy of the answer. Further progress in the theory depends upon the provision of observations by astronomers, but data available so far confirm Dr. Silberstein's figure. Commenting on measurements on other heavenly bodies which are in progress, Dr. Silberstein said: "Should these new items not fall much below that corresponding to

B.C. FILM STAR ENCHANTED WITH BANFF LOCATION

Miss M. Loughheed, of New Westminster, Heroine in Canadian Film

Banff, Alta., Aug. 13.—Miss Margaret Loughheed, of New Westminster, B.C., who is being featured as the heroine in the All-Canadian film, "Policing the Plains," is spending a week in Banff as the guest of her aunt, Lady Loughheed. This beautiful and versatile young painter, musician, dancer and actress is accompanied by her sister Ethel. Miss Loughheed is spending most of her time in Banff sketching scenes in the surrounding mountains. "I have simply been enchanted by the marvellous beauty of the ever-changing colors of the Rockies," she said. "It seems to cast a spell over one. Last night I sat up all night at Chateau Lake Louise gazing out of my window at the moon as it appeared and disappeared behind the massive mountain peaks, casting most fantastic shadows on the mystic placidity of the lake." A dinner party in honor of Miss Loughheed and her sister was given at Chateau Lake Louise Friday evening by Lady Loughheed and her daughter Dorothy. Miss Margaret Loughheed will return to the coast this week to resume her role in the film, which was taken from R. G. MacBeth's book "Policing the Plains," depicting the official history of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. "I am not an actress," she said, "and I am taking this role only because the film is an official one, telling the history of the country in which I was born, Western Canada, and because I am not a professional I am playing under an assumed name according to the wishes of my people."

YOUR HEALTH

HOW TO AID YOUR DOCTOR IN A TYPHOID FEVER CASE

By Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

Certain diseases are always more or less prevalent. One of these is typhoid fever, sometimes called "autumnal fever" because it is more often seen in the Fall of the year. This is an infectious disease and one in which the symptoms are so varied that no two cases appear alike. One may have very few symptoms, perhaps only fever and tenderness of the abdomen. Another case may have these symptoms and, in addition, involvement of other organs. It has been shown that in all wars until the last great war, typhoid fever killed more men than bullets. Fortunately, science changed all this by the time the great war swept the world. Just as vaccines have proved so valuable in many other diseases, in typhoid the results have been so marked that the patient is seldom encountered after inoculation. Typhoid fever is caused by the "bacillus typhosus." This germ gains entrance to the body through water, milk and other food. Flies may carry the germs to food or drink. There have been epidemics where every family in a town has had victims of typhoid through the use of impure water. Milk and oysters are among the most common carriers of the typhoid bacillus. Typhoid carriers are another source of infection. Certain persons, having had typhoid, carry these germs in their bodies for years. The excreta containing these germs may be the source of infection of many other workers. The period of incubation in this disease is from eight to fourteen days. As a rule the onset is gradual. There may first be headache, then abdominal pain, constipation, fever, chills, eruption on the abdomen and many other symptoms. Whatever the symptoms, if there is reason to believe the trouble is typhoid, the patient should be put to bed and kept quiet. A case which might otherwise have been slight has often proved extremely severe because this precaution was observed. One person should be assigned to the case unless the patient is so ill as to require more attention. This plan lessens the chances of passing the disease on to others. After many years of study of this disease, doctors have found that medicine is not the most important thing in treating typhoid. Careful nursing, proper diet and general prophylaxis will bring the average case to complete recovery without mishap and protect others against it. The diet should consist of milk, broth, jellies, codded eggs and such other things as the doctor advises for the individual case. Great care of the patient is essential. Frequent baths and cool sponges, care of the mouth and a cleanly-made bed will promote the comfort. The excreta should be disinfected before being taken from the room. All bedding and personal linen should be kept separate, should be disinfected and then may be washed separately. There need be no fear of other cases of typhoid fever if these suggestions are followed.

LIUTENANT-GOVERNOR DEDICATES CAIRN TO HONOR OF NAVIGATORS

THE FUNCTION

Judge Howay presided at the function to-day, and His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Nichol delivered an interesting address on the early history of the navigators. The judge, who is the western representative on the Historic Sites and Monuments Board, spoke of the status of the freedom of the seas.

Professor W. N. Sage of the University of B.C. dealt with the Spanish occupation.

John Forsyth, Provincial Librarian and Archivist, gave an address on the signing of the convention of 1795, while Victor B. Harrison, grand chief factor of the Native Sons of British Columbia, also spoke.

Kipling's "Recessional" was rendered before the brief ceremony concluded.

A series of Indian dances followed.

A NOTABLE CEREMONY

His Honor said in part:

"Our gratitude is not only due to the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, who have so kindly provided this monument, but also to the native inhabitants of the district who have so generously granted the ground for the purpose," said His Honor. "The monument is unique in so far that it is the first monument to be erected west of the Rocky Mountains by the Board, and the first to be unveiled west of the Great Lakes."

"In order that we may fully appreciate the events which are being commemorated today it seems necessary that reference should be made to the earliest discovery and occupation of the Coast."

Since the discovery of the Pacific Ocean by Balboa early in the sixteenth century we can trace many important events which have had some influence on this country as it is today.

"With the Spanish dominion established by Cortes in Mexico and the advent of other nations, the Spaniards became very active in this ocean. They looked upon the Pacific as a reserve for their empire, having acquired sovereignty of the seas not only by authority of Papal bulls but by conquest and occupation. For more than one hundred and fifty years little progress was made in discovery by the Spaniards."

NORTHWEST PASSAGE

"With the acquisition of Canada by Great Britain in 1763 attention was directed to the probable existence of a Northwest passage, and the possibility of a rival advancing westward across the continent was viewed with alarm by the Spaniards. Moreover, they were much perturbed over the reported activities of the Russians in the North."

ESTABLISH BASE

"Stirred to action in order to establish their claim to the whole of the Pacific Coast of North America, the Spaniards created a marine department at the port of San Blas, where arsenals and shipyards were erected, and from thence all exploratory expeditions started for the north."

"The first of these expeditions left San Blas in the Santiago in January, 1774, under command of Juan Perez, with orders to explore far north as the 40th parallel. Perez, it is claimed by the Spaniards, discovered the islands now known as the Queen Charlotte Islands. On his voyage home he noticed a bay on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, which he named Port San Lorenzo. The claim has been made that this was King George's Sound or Nootka Sound of Captain Cook, but such claim has been much refuted by authorities. With the return of Perez to San Blas several other expeditions set out, including one in 1778 commanded by Quadra, but that intrepid navigator, Captain James Cook, had in the previous year already examined these places visited by Quadra."

"Having been commissioned by the British Government to examine the coast line in search of a passage to the eastward, Captain Cook set out on his third and last voyage in 1776 and reaching the Northwest Coast in 1778 he experienced bad weather, and passing unnoticed the Meares was destined to take an important place in the history of Nootka. The expedition was fitted out by a company of British merchants in Canton and consisted of two ships, the Felice, in command of John Meares, and the Iphigenia Nubiana, commanded by William Douglas.

On May 16, 1788, Meares was hospitably received by Maquinna and Callum, the chiefs at Nootka Sound. In return for presents of copper, iron and other articles, Meares procured from Maquinna a piece of land at Friendly Cove, where he erected a large two-story building to serve as a dwelling, workshop and storehouse. A strong breastwork was thrown up round the house, with a cannon placed so as to command the cove and the village of Nootka. The work completed, the British flag was raised for the first time on the western coast of America, and here also the keel was laid of the Northwest America, the first ship to be built on the Pacific Coast north of the Spanish possessions in California.

COMPETITORS COME
"During these years British ships were not the only ones engaged in this trade. Competitors arrived from American ports and elsewhere."

"Spain became alarmed at the encroachment of foreigners, and in the years 1788 to 1790 several expeditions were sent northward to establish the sovereignty of Spain over the whole of this embayment. By this treaty Spain practically surrendered her claim of supreme sovereignty on the Northwest Coast."

"The last recorded voyage of the Spaniards to our coast was that of the schooner 'Sutil' and 'Mexicana,' commanded by Gallano and Valdes, which left San Blas for Nootka Sound in 1792. These two vessels were met by Captain Vancouver in the Gulf of Georgia and courtesies exchanged with their commanders."

SEIZED OPPORTUNITY
"The coming of Capt. Vancouver and his fine accomplishment outlines these later voyages of the Spaniards, who although practically unknown to the Northwest Coast for over 200 years, with every inducement to explore new routes and open up trade on these shores, failed to let it remain as an immense reserve on the Pacific, a policy which became their undoing."

"Reference has already been made to Capt. Vancouver's visit to Nootka Sound while serving as a midshipman with Cook, and probably little thought of the present occasion he would take in later events upon this same coast."

"In December, 1790, Capt. Vancouver was appointed Commander of the Discovery and despatched to Nootka Sound. The voyage had a double purpose. Not only was he to renew the search for a Northwest passage, but instructions were also given him to see that the terms of the Nootka Convention were carried out and to receive back in form the territory which the Spaniards had ceded. In a communication from Nootka dated September 5, 1792, Vancouver deals with the negotiations carried on between himself and the Spanish commandant, Quadra, regarding the cession of Nootka and the naming of the territory the Island of Quadra and Vancouver in commemoration of the meeting and friendly intercourse between these two commanders."

"To Vancouver is due the honor of being the first investigator of the Vancouver Island, any claims of prior discovery of the insular character of the island having been refuted by Spanish and American commanders exploring this region."

"The countries represented in the exploration of the Pacific from the time of Balboa included Russians, Portuguese, Spaniards, French, Americans and British, but to a Britisher the names of Cook and Vancouver must always stand out prominently in this connection."

VALUABLE FUR TRADE
"While at Nootka the British brought him furs. A exchange for articles of small value. These furs were made into coats by the sailors, who realizing such high prices for the furs in Siberia and China, they desired to return immediately for a further supply, and almost mutilated when refused."

"It was 1780 before Cook's ships reached England, and 1784 before the account of the third voyage was published, but it gave to the world the news of the rich trade in furs obtainable in this region."

"The search for the Northwest Passage having been practically abandoned for the present, the special inducement to adventurers on these coasts was a share in the trade in furs. The first of these traders was James Hanna, an Englishman, who sailed from China in a small vessel of sixty tons, arriving at Nootka in August, 1780. On this voyage he got 560 sea otter skins, which he sold in China for $20,500. He was followed by Captain Peters in the same year, Portlock and Dixon in 1786, Barkley in 1787, and Meares in 1787, 1788 and 1789."

COMING OF MEARES
"On his second voyage to the coast of North America in 1787 measured from eight feet eight inches in circumference. The corner posts were to be set up next, marking the width of the house, but they were shorter than those on which the ridgepole rested, so as to have another spar placed on each side of the first, and a little lower, to give a slant to the roof of the house. The spars which were to come under the eaves or beyond the ends of the house were made flat on the upper side, with a little rising edge left on the outer part to prevent the planks from sliding off."

"When these side spars were laid upon the posts, the builders proceeded to laying on the roof. The planks of which this were formed were heavy, with a broad feather-edge, so as to lap, and placed one edge on the ridgepole, the other on the side beam, closely lapping along, 'till one coat of the roof was formed."

"Another coat of planks was laid on so as to jut over the eaves or beyond the ends of the first laying, in a way to exclude the rain entirely."

"These were only fastened on by large rocks that were laid upon them, but they were often so insecure as to obligate the men to go out and sit upon the roofs of their houses, in a violent storm, to keep them from being blown away."

"To form the side of the house a double row of stanchions was set up, as high as the eaves, the distance of each pair from the other about as long as the planks to be used, and the stakes of each couple just far enough apart to admit the plank. The planks were then slidden in between them resting upon the edge of the other, 'till the side of the building was sealed up."

"There was but one entrance to the house, that commonly at the end, though that of Maquinna's house was in the middle of the side."

"They had no chimneys or smokestacks, but they built a fire together to build the fire on, and a board in the roof above, so fixed as to be shoved aside when they wanted to let the smoke out."

"At that time the foundation of the Spanish government house was still visible, and there were several kinds of European plants, as peas, turnips, and onions, that had scattered themselves about in the soil, and were growing, though in a stunted manner, without cultivation."

"The houses in Nootka were about twenty in number, and were of various sizes, according to the rank of the tyces who lived in them, as each house contained several families, over which the chief who occupied it with them was considered the rightful lord."

"Each family held their little allotment in the house, separate from the other parts; and each house was large enough to accommodate a great many people, none being too small for two families."

"These buildings, of which Maquinna's was the largest, stood nearly in a direct line, thus forming by one range of the houses on the hill's side."

"The manner in which the Nootkians built was as follows: and it does not seem quite so difficult as getting the materials ready for use, which must in their way and with their means must have been a very laborious process."

"When a building was to be erected, and the preparations made, the first thing was to set two large posts so far into the ground as to make them sure to stand, and at such a distance from each other as to command the length of the house. The top of each post being bolted out so as to let the end of a spar fit in and remain secure."

"An immensely large and long spar was then laid upon them to form the ridgepole of the house, but if the length of the house required it, two additional posts were set up so as to admit of the ridgepole being supported by spars, which were not infrequently the case, as some of them were very long."

"The king's house was 100 feet long, and the single spar

NEWS IN BRIEF

The regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Women's Institute will be held on Friday at the rooms, Surrey Block.

Joe North wishes to thank all those who contributed to the fund for the orphan at the Pantages Theatre. Over $24 was collected, and the money will be used to buy clothes and shoes for the Protestant Orphanage children.

The members of the Oddfellows lodge of the city will pay a fraternal visit to Clallam Lodge No. 72, at Port Angeles, Washington, on Saturday next. They will leave here on the steamer Olympic at 3.30 o'clock, and are assured of a cordial welcome and a good time by the brethren of Port Angeles. Members of the order wishing to participate in this visit are requested to telephone No. 681.

W. H. Trowbridge James, M.I.M.M., prominent in business circles here and elsewhere along the Coast today or fourteen years ago as general manager of the Victoria Copper Company, operators of the Lady Smith smelter, is expected to arrive in Victoria from London, England, tomorrow. He is to carry the excursionist's Saanich school pupils who passed high school entrance examinations will obtain certificates from the principals of their schools, Secretary Rawlins of the School Board announces.

The 16th Canadian Scottish Battalion is expected to be joined by a large number of Victorians when the annual excursion of the battalion is held on the afternoon of Wednesday, August 20, to Port Angeles. A change has been made in the rate announced for the fare, the rate being reduced. The steamer Princess Adelaide, which is to carry the excursionists across the Strait, will leave the C.P.R. wharf at 2 o'clock on August 20. This time has been chosen in order to permit time for those who have the Wednesday half holiday to take advantage of the excursion. The Mayor of Port Angeles has sent a formal invitation to the commanding officer of the 16th Battalion and the people of Port Angeles are making arrangements for the entertainment of the excursionists.

The Victoria and Island Life Underwriters' Association gathered in Spencer's private dining-room on Monday noon for lunch before entering in the work of the usual monthly meeting. The president, Col. Lorne Ross, was in the chair, and after the disposal of various items of business the meeting took on a lighter form; perhaps better adapted to vacation time, in a story-telling contest between Scotch and Irish teams. The Irish members told stories against the Scotch and the Scotch tried their best to reverse any verdict gained by the Irish. Much merriment greeted the efforts of both parties, and the judges could but award equal honors to them. During the meeting reference was made to the recent incorporation of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, of which body the local organization is an integral part.

BOA CONSTRICTORS MADE EXCITEMENT IN VESSEL AT SEA

New York, Aug. 13.—Seven ten-foot boa constrictors which escaped from their cages, kept thirty-two members of the crew, eight passengers and monkeys, macaws and screamers on the steamship Bolivar awake for four days during the voyage from Colombia. Captain L. L. Long said here to-day. The escape of the snakes became known when the crewed-in screamers, tropical birds objected to the reptiles' efforts to devour them. Their shrill warnings brought quick assistance. Five of the snakes were captured easily, but two rolled themselves up in an awning. A sailor discovered their hiding place when one fell at his feet.

STATES CONFERENCE IN RESULT OF VOTE

Premier, Addressing Laurier Club in Vancouver, Speaks of Nelson By-election

Wishes Parliament to Bring About Equalization of Freight Rates

Vancouver, Aug. 13.—Disavowing any connection with reported wrongdoing in connection with the North Vancouver election, Premier Oliver, addressing the Laurier Club here today, declared that if any wrongful acts had been perpetrated, the guilty should be punished.

"Is it a part of a propaganda for the purpose of keeping the public mind in a ferment, or is it all this talk about illegality in North Vancouver for some good reason?" Mr. Oliver asked.

He announced he was against the suggestions for an extra-judicial inquiry, saying the Elections Act supplied the machinery necessary. After this machinery had been exhausted, then there was further proposed another way, which was by a special committee of the Legislature.

With reference to his coming by-election in Nelson, Mr. Oliver expressed his confidence in the outcome and said: "My greatest ambition, before founding on my political career, is to find the way to well begun. I believe you will admit—for an equalization of freight rates. But above that, my one great ambition in life is to have my cabinet draw to close as that great man after whom the Laurier Club is named—that my reputation, when I am gone, may be as destined as his."

"I had hoped that the election would have been more favorable, but considering everything, it is a wonder we survived at all," he added. "I make this prediction, that when the subject of freight rates comes before the Railway Board next month, it will take the position that the rates cannot be discriminatory because they were put in force through the Crow's Nest Agreement by Parliament and Parliament will have to decide if they are discriminatory, not the Railway Board."

I suggest that if that should be the decision of the board, I would like to get a decision on a definite line of principle, that would establish the position that if relief comes it can be got from Parliament itself, and with the feeling in all provinces as it now is, the condition will be favorable for a settlement applying the remedy without respect to locality.

Australian Sheep Sold For £5,250

Sydney, N.S.W., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—A Merino ram was sold for £5,250 here to-day, this being a record Australian price for a sheep. The valuable animal was sheared just after it had changed hands and its fleece weighed thirty-two and a half pounds.

ITALIAN AVIATOR DELAYED BY FOG

Stromness, Ofkney Islands, Aug. 13.—Lieut. Locatelli, the Italian aviator, left here shortly after 11 o'clock this morning in continuance of his transatlantic flight in the wake of the United States army aviators.

After being out less than an hour, he returned to Stromness. He found the fog conditions such as to make it inadvisable to continue.

Cheap Taxi Fares Make All Riders

New York, Aug. 13.—The new taxicab rate of twenty cents a mile is making riders of boys and girls who have been in a cab since baby carriages were forced out of traffic by economics.

Sightseeing busses used to charge $1 for the ride to Coney Island. Since the taxi rate was the price has been cut to fifty cents.

Manila, Aug. 13.—A wireless message received here to-day from the steamer West Katana, a shipping board office, said she was anchored off the coast of Luzon, Philippines, in a very dangerous position. The steamer, another shipping board freighter in the vicinity, was ordered to answer the West Katana's call for assistance.

JOKERS FOUND COLLEAGUE A FAIR TRAIN "BRIDE," AND MARRIAGE STORY GOES EAST

When some of the practical jokers on the special train on the Canadian Pacific Railway, which brought the teachers here for their convention started a witticism at the expense of one of the most genial Toronto delegates, who is a bachelor of mature years, they did not expect to be confronted with an announcement of his marriage, which came through by telegram to The Times this morning, with a request for scrutiny.

It appears that the gallant bachelor's willingness to help the ladies inspired one tormentor with a plan to marry him off, and on sundry occasions the "bride" and "bridegroom" were showered with confetti at the railway stations, and at one city on the prairies so much was thrown that the crowd gathered at the barriers to see the "bride." The gallant groom took it all in good part, and when mock presentations were made en route he assured them the gifts would always be carefully treasured in "the family." The guides on the train stoutly deny there was any mock marriage, and declare the joke was hurled over hundreds of miles without embarrassment to the lady.

RUHR AGREEMENT IS NOT YET FOUND

London, Aug. 13.—Premier Herriot and Theunis and Chancellor Marx left Downing Street at 7.30 p.m. without having reached an agreement on the Ruhr evacuation, but Premier Herriot said everything was going well.

There would be no further meeting of the Premiers and the Chancellor to-night, Mr. Herriot said, but they would meet again tomorrow.

AFTERNOON MEETING

London, Aug. 13.—The conference held by French, Belgian and German representatives in Downing Street this afternoon in an effort to reach a settlement of the Ruhr evacuation problem, ended at 1.30 o'clock without arriving at a solution, adjourning till late in the afternoon.

In consequence of the meeting of the Council of Fourteen set for 4 p.m., at which it was hoped the announcement of a settlement would be received, were called to enable the outside conversations to be continued. It was announced that the next meeting of the "Big Four" would be held to-morrow morning.

CRITICAL PERIOD

"To-day is the most critical day of the conference," Dr. Marx, the German Chancellor, declared to news paper correspondents this afternoon, just before going into the 5 o'clock conference with Premier Herriot of France and Premier Theunis of Belgium, their French and Belgian associates to resume their discussion of the Ruhr evacuation.

"I go to this afternoon's conference with a feeling of great responsibility as the questions to be considered are so vital to Germany and other countries concerned," he continued. "But I go filled with hope and if we reach an agreement I think the most important part of the conference will have passed."

THORNTON SPEAKS GRANDE PRAIRIE

Says Final Decision on Peace River Transportation is Ottawa's Duty

Grande Prairie, Alta., Aug. 13.—"I have the greatest interest in this country," declared Sir Henry Thornton, addressing a crowded meeting of the residents of the Grande Prairie district last night, "and while I am in this country, I am unable to give you any promise that relief will be afforded, as the final decision on this question rests with the Dominion Government. I can assure you, however, that the Government has been obliged to consider strong pressure for a budget. The budget can form certain definite impressions as to the route, but I must withhold them until confirmed by the technical advice of my engineers. Before a definite decision can be reached it will be necessary to have a conference of the five parties concerned, the Alberta, British Columbia and Federal Governments, and the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, and on the decisions arrived at during that conference the transportation relief of the Peace River country will depend."

"You can rest assured that I will do all in my power to get such relief for this district as will benefit the interests of the greater number, but I must remind you that the final decision in this matter rests with the Dominion Government."

Has Your Husband An Efficient Business Partner?

Home-making is a business enterprise in which two human factors figure, sharing equally the work and the responsibilities. The husband, generally the income-earner; the wife, generally the income-manager—these two constitute the business firm, and the success of the home-enterprise often hinges upon the ability of the income-manager quite as much as upon the ability of the income-earner.

The wife is her husband's business partner. Upon her efficiency in management depends, usually, the material prosperity of the partnership.

In earning the income, it is accepted as quite natural that the husband must have developed special ability and special knowledge of the work he does. No small phase of his work is too insignificant to call for special study. He must never be "too busy" to learn a new fact—if that fact has any bearing upon his work.

In spending the income, a task which offers so many opportunities for improvidence and costly blunders, only the wisest of wives have come to realize that efficiency is required—that knowledge of values, familiarity with local stores, with prices, with seasonable tendencies in trade, are a part of her business equipment.

The dollar which requires a lot of work and thinking to earn should be worth some thinking and some wise planning in the spending.

The store advertisements are a daily education for the stay-at-home business partner. They constitute "trade news" for her—and her at-the-office business partner can tell her how important is this factor of "trade news" to all business people.

The time which she devotes to studying the "ads" is time devoted specifically and profitably to her task of managing the home. It is not something aside from housework. It is part of it which the housewife cannot delegate to somebody else. It cannot be left to servants. It is work for the boss.

Billy Connor Is Hero of Dramatic Race at Colwood

Outsider Roms Home With Lengths to Spare and Pays $137.60 on Nose Bets

Greatest Winner in Years on Local Tracks; Flypaper Only Other Outsider

About a dozen bettors got a real kick out of the last race at Colwood track yesterday afternoon. They were the fans who had enough courage to plunk a $137 ticket straight on the nose of Billy Connor, a rangy chestnut carrying the silks of H. Strahlendorf, and with Maskell's boots fast in the stirrups.

The rest of the 2,500 spectators who glimpsed the race got a rude shock. They couldn't see anything but the two mares, Miss Belfry and Miss Paige, who proceeded to miss by a mile.

The man who places the odds on the board after the races enjoyed with keen relish his duty of presiding over the place. He jockeyed with the figures for some seconds. First he put up a one, and there was a low murmur of dismay at the thought that Connor was only good for double figures. Then when the three appeared it looked as though there was either something radically wrong or else there had been a flood of money on the horse at the last minute. The poster of the odds began sliding the thirteen over so as to make room for another figure before the race was over.

The odds then came seven, which made $137. Without further ado 60 cents was added to the total, making $137.60 as the straight on Billy Connor.

IT WAS A SHOCK

While the men who do the calculating and fix the prices were busy doing up the place and show money the racing folks leaned over the stand and fences uttered a lot of funny expressions, mopped their brows and seemed powerless to turn their weary footsteps homeward. They wanted to see what the rest of the story would be.

Then came the man with the little slip of paper carrying the rest of the place. Up went the place money on Billy Connor, $58.65, which called forth more unusual expressions. The show money was $137.60.

These were the most startling prices paid here in a good many years. They eclipsed those paid at the Willows last year on Truante, who returned his backers' $102.

WON WITH EASE

Billy Connor was entirely overlooked in the betting. He has been an inconsistent performer, and with such good runners as Bookworm, Miss Belfry and Miss Paige entered, it looked as though he was out of his class.

After laying back over half the mile route Maskell brought Connor up fast and his four hand legs were flashing in front for out in front when the thoroughbreds swung into the long home stretch. Connor had the speed of the field, and won by three lengths with Young Hunter, another outsider, second. Miss Paige was third.

Flypaper was the only other horse to pay a fancy price to win yesterday. The jockey made a run-away of the second race and paid $115 to win. Caligan was second and Ingie third.

Quota, who ran such a fine race on Monday, was called to repeat yesterday, and came through without trouble, having lengths to spare on Angela and Rosa Atkin, both of whom paid good prices.

DELIVERS AT LAST

Some baby, who has been having trouble getting home in front in local races, had a soft time in the fourth race, running the legs off the fast, critic, Deertrail. She will, usually a good last, managed to make the show money and paid $9.05.

She Devil was the shortest favorite of the day and, with a Feden up, stepped into the lead at the start, and let the rest of the horses follow her to the wire. Grandson was second and Whippet third.

The programme started off with a favorite winning. Ruth Wehle taking the first race with ease. Norford Honey was second and Belle Witwer was third.

Lawrence Manning had a distance to his liking in the sixth, and went over the mile in easy style, winning easily. Tom Owens was second and Old Prairie was third.

The results were:

First race—The Scarplin Claiming Purse, $400, for three-year-olds and older; five and one-half furlongs; 1. Ruth Wehle (Paden), $3.30, $2.90, $2.50; 2. Norford Honey (Zarella), $4.80, $4.50; 3. Belle Witwer (Jaffa), $2.70, Time, 1:09 2-5. Also ran: Hasten On, Irish Courage, Mike Dixon, Welga, Pittsburg, and Smiling Maggie.

Second race—The Gyro Claiming Purse, $400, for three-year-olds and older; five and one-half furlongs; 1. Flypaper (Whittingham), $15.15, $14.00, $13.00; 2. Caligan (Primrose), $5.85, $5.15; 3. India (Paden), $2.80. Also ran: Cafeteria, Kimberley, Poodle Me, Blue Mink, Nipper Little, Closely Kay, and Tough and Tight. Time, 1:09 1-5.

Third race—The Medesmas Purse, $400, for three-year-olds and older; one mile and one-half furlongs; 1. Quota (Marlin), $6.20, $5.50, $4.80; 2. Angela (Dellow), $7.15, $6.50; 3. Rosa Atkin, $6.00. Also ran: Miss Nantura, Little Polster, Ivy Gray and Porter Ella.

W. CONNOR

The local rider who was thrown last week at the Colwood track when his mount Rumply stumbled and broke a leg is progressing well at the Royal Jubilee Hospital after having been unconscious for two days.

The rest of the 2,500 spectators who glimpsed the race got a rude shock. They couldn't see anything but the two mares, Miss Belfry and Miss Paige, who proceeded to miss by a mile.

Blinding Speed Under Control Is Secret of Vance's Success

Control, plus blinding speed. That's the secret of Dazzy Vance's great success in the National League.

Seven or eight years ago Vance came to the New York Yankees a raw recruit.

The late Wild Bill Donovan was managing the club. In his day Wild Bill had been a great pitcher himself. As his nickname implied, he was given to spectacular outbursts of wildness, although this feature of his work was greatly Vance as a pitcher, but sent him on his way because he couldn't get the ball over the plate.

"The kid's got everything a great pitcher needs," admitted Donovan, "but it won't do him any good until he learns how to keep it close to the plate."

As the years rolled on the wisdom of Donovan's size-up became clear to all. Vance certainly had everything that makes for success on the mound and, as soon as he acquired control, he became a great pitcher.

To-day Dazzy Vance is not only the star of the Brooklyn team but one of the outstanding pitchers in baseball.

Vance's chief stock in trade is his fast ball, backed up by almost perfect control. Umpires in the National League say his fast ball is just about as fast as a bullet.

Vance is a product of the great open spaces of Iowa, is thirty-one years old, a six-footer and a right-hander. He has been pitching professionally for about ten years. He got his start with the Hastings club of the Nebraska State League. Brooklyn got him in 1922.

They call him Dazzy because of his dazzling speed.

The introduction of new men to the game of lawn bowling is proceeding merrily. Last evening at the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club a team from the Forest Branch directed by H. T. Rendwick tried conclusions with a lands team. Six freshmen realized that the "old man's game," as bowling is termed, is by no means the simple thing it looks, and that more than one lesson would be required.

A pleasant game resulted in favor of the lands team. The scores were: R. Burns, J. Kerr, G. Ingledew, R. Inshall, 13.

W. Holman, W. Bridge, J. Scharf and H. T. Rendwick, 8.

Although the vacation season is not a good time to start competitions the Ladies' Burnside Bowling Club has determined to go ahead with whatever number of members is available.

The committee met last evening on the green and made the following draw for the singles, the games to be played at any time suitable to the two players concerned:

M. Huddleston or Mr. Tomes vs. R. Munro. E. Renfrew vs. M. Boyd. W. Pass vs. A. E. Byng. E. A. Hale vs. E. Vallance.

The game consists of 15 points.

RESTRICT ENTRIES FOR U.S. DOUBLES

It was announced yesterday that it was necessary to insure completion of the tournament in five days, allowing a day for possible rain, so as not to conflict with the national singles starting August 25, as Forest Hills, New York.

Tilden, last year, and paired this year with Ray Brown, St. Louis; Clarence Sanders and M. B. Hutchings, Longwood champions; M. Bellinger and H. McElvaney, international champions; W. Newell and C. Meyer, Missouri Valley champions.

WRESTLERS DRAW

Bayley Succeeded In Holding Chicago Battler to a Draw

Puggy Morton and Bayley Put up Great Scrap at Pantages Last Night

Visitor Showed Great Speed And Fine Foot Work; Good Preliminary Bouts

In one of the best bouts seen in this city for some time Joe Bayley, claimant of the Canadian lightweight championship, and "Puggy" Morton of Chicago, fought ten gruelling rounds to a draw at Pantages Theatre last night. Both fighters mixed things well after feeling one another out carefully for two or three rounds and a draw was a popular decision. For the first six rounds Bayley was the aggressor, but towards the finish of the fight the visitor led the attack and piled up enough points to even the fight.

All through the battle Joe tried hard to land a haymaker on Morton's jaw, but the visiting fighter usually ducked the terrific right hooks. Morton had more steps than a dancing dervish.

For the first couple of rounds both batters fought cautiously and took no chances. Not until the fifth round did either fighter land a square blow. Bayley was trying hard to plant a good one on Morton's jaw, while the Chicagoan was after Joe's stomach.

HARD BLOWS LAND

In the seventh round Morton landed a right hook to Bayley's jaw that rocked him. Joe came back strong, and he landed two left jabs to Morton's jaw.

Morton did the leading in the ninth, but Bayley covered up nicely and the two fighters met in the centre of the ring and slugged one another for the first time during the fight. At the end of the round the two men were quite fresh.

When the gong sounded for the final round shouts of "put him away, Joe," came from the audience, and although Joe bored right in, he was unable to land the right blow, and the Chicago battler gave more than he took. At the sound of the bell Joe Al Davis declared the fight a draw.

Each fighter won four rounds, while the first and fourth were even. BROTHERS SWAP PUNCHES

In the first preliminary bout the audience was greatly amused when George Wilkinson, local 115-pounder, gave his younger brother, Eddie, a good licking.

In the return bout between Davy Lewis and Danny Pascoe, the two promising young local bantamweights, the superior aggressiveness of Pascoe won for him the decision. The bout had gone an extra round. The awarding of the decision to Pascoe was greeted by cat calls and boos from the audience, who continued to ride Referee Billy Davis for some time.

The two little dustwhees Clarence Leasky and Vic Holman, from Duncan, received a mixed things well, and gave promise of being two fine fighters. This was a return bout, Leask getting the decision last night. Holmes was the victor in the first battle.

Albie Davies, local midweight battler, was declared winner over Jimmy Warwick of the Pacific Coast League ball game. The two local light-heavyweights, Ernest Woodley and Sam McFee met in a four-round bout. Woodley was the best of the fight when the up-and-comer defeated his opponent terribly, only the bell saving McFee from being knocked out in the first round.

Referee Billy Davies awarded the decision to Woodley at the end of the second round to save his opponent from being battered any more.

TWO TECHNICAL K.O.'S

In the middleweight bout between Frankie Ross, late of London, England, and Jim Best of Duncan, the English fighter won on a technical knockout in the second round. The referee quickly in the second round when the referee called a halt to save Best from further punishment.

A fine semi-windup was provided when the two local light-heavyweights, Ernest Woodley and Sam McFee met in a four-round bout. Woodley was the best of the fight when the up-and-comer defeated his opponent terribly, only the bell saving McFee from being knocked out in the first round.

Referee Billy Davies awarded the decision to Woodley at the end of the second round to save his opponent from being battered any more.

SHOWING THIS WEEK AT CAPITOL

Richard Dix and Mary Astor in the Paramount Picture "Unguarded Women." An Alan Crosland Production

"The Covered Wagon"
Draws Big Crowds
To Royal Theatre

James Cruze's Paramount production, "The Covered Wagon" eclipses anything in pictures. There never has been seen such a picture as this one, which is showing again to-night at 8.30 at the Royal Victoria Theatre. This production is undoubtedly one of the most magnificent screen presentations ever shown here. There is a long line of excellent players headed by J. Warren Kerrigan and Lois Wilson. The latter will be remembered for her excellent work in "Manslaughter."

Mr. Kerrigan as Will Banion, leader of a wagon train, falls in love with Molly Wingate (Lois Wilson) whom he meets when his wagon joins those headed by her father, Jesse Wingate (Charles Ogle). Alan Hale, playing the role of Sam Woodhull, a scoundrel, is tentatively engaged to marry Lois, and bitter rivalry arises between him and Banion.

Throughout the story, Woodhull is set on "getting" Banion. After a series of thrilling events, he encounters Banion in California, where the latter has made a fortune in the gold fields. Woodhull is about to kill him from ambush when Jackson, an old scout, sees Woodhull and kills him.

Banion is informed that he has been cleared of certain charges made against him by Woodhull and that Molly is waiting for him in her frontier home in Oregon. The picture closes with the reunion at the Oregon homestead.

The work of Mr. Kerrigan is most commendable. Miss Wilson proved unusually charming.

Why "A Gentleman of Leisure" Now At Pantages, Attracts

In England it is considered bad form to make an open show of sentiment.

It is the intrusion of American carefree display of romance into the staid course of English custom that makes "A Gentleman of Leisure," a Paramount picture starring Jack Holt now on view at the Pantages Theatre, such a decidedly different and entertaining photoplay.

When Mr. Holt, enacting the role of a wealthy American with lots of money and time, falls in love with an English girl of high birth, played by Sigrid Holmgren, she brushes every convention aside and rushes through a romance as exciting as it is flurried.

We are certain that when Alan Crosland produced "Unguarded Women" for the Paramount his primary motive was to provide excellent entertainment. That he succeeded in this is patent to anyone who saw the picture for the first time at the Capitol Theatre yesterday. What we want to point out, however, is that even if Mr. Crosland never intended there should be one, nevertheless there is a moral hidden away in this stimulating photoplay, and this is it: day by day in every way folks are getting better and better.

"Unguarded Women" was adapted by James Creelman from The Saturday Evening Post story, "Face," by Lucy Stone Terrill. It concerns a young man who in a moment of physical cowardice on the battlefield causes the death of his comrade. Long after the war is over he is still haunted with bitter memories of his momentary weakness. In an effort to forget he goes to China, accompanied by his fiancée. It is in Peking that Fate takes a hand in his affairs, for there he meets the widow of his friend who died that he might live. And then we see this high-minded, honorable man decide to make the supreme sacrifice by giving up his fiancée and all thought of happiness to devote his energies towards saving the widow whose utter disregard of the conventions has put her outside the pale of society.

Richard Dix, Bebe Daniels and Mary Astor, each give a marvelous performance, and the supporting staff which includes Walter McGrail, Harry Mestayer, Frank Losee and Joe King are more than adequate in their respective parts.

Plenty of Action
In New Valentino
Paramount Picture

"Monsieur Beaucaire" With Bebe Daniels, Coming to Dominion

Movie fans who yearn for action in pictures will get plenty of it when "Monsieur Beaucaire," the Sidney Olcott production for Paramount starring Rudolph Valentino, comes to the Dominion Theatre next week.

The Booth Tarkington story has been unchanged except for the insertion of a number of scenes in the opening of the picture in order to build up the French episodes in the story. In the original book there were no French scenes, all the action taking place in England with the incidents in France merely mentioned at different places in the story. While there is plenty of dramatic suspense in the French scenes in the picture there is little actual physical combat except for the closing scenes of the episode showing the supper table of King Louis XV. It is here the action takes place that ends up with the Duke de Chartres, played by Valentino, defying the king who has ordered the duke to marry the Princess Bourbon-Conti. The scenes showing Rudy resisting the efforts of the King's guards to arrest him are as thrilling as any yet put upon the screen.

Featured in support of Valentino in this picture which, by the way, marks his first screen appearance in two years, are Bebe Daniels, Lois Wilson, Doris Kenyon and Lowell Sherman.

Herbert Brenon Now Reveals Secret of Success by Torrence

The greatest achievement of any actor on the screen is to make the people who are watching him forget that he is an actor, according to Herbert Brenon. In other words the actor must be the character he is playing and not just an actor. In making clear the distinction Mr. Brenon cited the work of Ernest Torrence, who is featured with Anna Q. Nilsson in his latest Paramount picture, "The Side Show of Life," playing at the Dominion all this week.

Torrence does stunts in the picture that make him a clown and not an actor playing a clown," Brenon explained. "For instance, he learned to balance cigar boxes on his chin, to juggle Indian clubs and rubber balls, and to balance a paper cone on his nose. Many actors playing such a part would never have gone to the trouble to learn the tricks, but would have said:

"Oh! I haven't time to learn these things. You can fake them, anyway." But not Torrence. When he sets out to play a part he lives the character. It is a joy for the director to work with an actor like him. You can always be sure that he will do something in his power to make his characterization perfect.

"In preparing for the clown scenes in the picture he hired a professional juggler to teach him the art. It is such work as this that makes great performances either on the screen or on the stage."

OAK BAY SELECTS UNION DELEGATESReeve and Two Officials Will Attend Penticton Sessions

Reeve Harold F. Hewlett, Councilor Major Taylor, and Municipal Clerk R. F. Blandy were selected by the Oak Bay Council in session last night as delegates to the convention of British Columbia Municipalities at Penticton in the first week of September. Mr. Blandy is president of the Municipal Officers' Association and will attend the sessions of that body as well.

As stated before, Oak Bay has a number of recommendations to bring before the convention, including one asking wider control of all municipal services by councils in centres of under 10,000 population. This would abolish the police and school boards as separate bodies. High School fees and zoning are other matters to be taken up.

The need for increased accommodation in Oak Bay schools was stressed by letters from the board, and a conference is planned between the two bodies on that subject. The clerk was instructed to notify Uplands Limited that unless its request with regard to Shore Road be complied with the agreement existing would be held to be void. The project of deepening Bowker Creek at a cost of $250, on Oak Bay land, was tabled for further consideration. After other and minor business the council rose.

ACQUITTED ON THE
LACK OF EVIDENCE

McNaughton and Smith Released in County Court

Through lack of sufficient corroborative evidence, Wallace McNaughton and J. Smith, charged with attempting to defeat the ends of justice by inducing a witness in a seduction case to leave the country, were acquitted by Judge McIntosh in the County Court yesterday. The judge told the accused that they had had a narrow escape and had they been found guilty of inducing the witness to leave the country, the sentence would have been a very severe one. There was not the evidence as to the meetings or corroboration of the statements of the young girl, as to the chain of circumstances, sufficient to convict.

Movie Production Discussion Called Escapade by Judge

Los Angeles, Aug. 13.—The defence of Jack Walton, New York mining man, lost a legal skirmish on several points here yesterday in an effort to obtain dismissal on petitions of non-suit of the suit of Ann Luther, screen actress, who is suing Walton for $100,000 for his alleged failure to keep an agreement to star her in four picture productions. The eighth count in the contention by the defence for dismissal, that of a verbal contract agreement, is being threshed out to-day.

Should, before adjournment yesterday Superior Judge L. H. Valentine interrupted the argument long enough to give his impression of the affair as "wholly an escapade" and condemn it in a lengthy statement out in the court records.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Sweet Soap

Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

(By Howard R. Garis)

Once upon a time Baby Bunty hopped over to Uncle Wiggily's low stump bungalow.

"Please take me with you, adventuring," begged the little rabbit girl. Uncle Wiggily looked at her.

"I can't," he said.

"Why not?" asked Bunty.

"Because your face and paws are so dirty," answered the rabbit uncle. "You must have been playing in the mud."

"I was!" laughed Baby Bunty. "I was making sand pies. But I'll go up in your bath room and wash myself," she promised. "Then, when I'm nice and clean you'll take me with you, won't you?"

"Maybe," promised Uncle Wiggily, non-committal like and cautious, like a Scotchman giving a friend a match.

The little rabbit girl went upstairs. There was the sound of splashing water. Then Uncle Wiggily heard the sound of "thump-thump-ump!" That was Bunty coming downstairs.

"I'm washed nice and clean!" she cried.

"Now take me adventuring!" Uncle Wiggily gave her one look and then he laughed and said:

"You didn't wash yourself!"

"Yes I did!" insisted Bunty.

"Oh, what a lovely perfume!" he howled.

"But you didn't wash yourself clean," said Uncle Wiggily. "You skipped places behind your ears. Here, come to the bath room with me and I'll wash you!"

The bunny gentleman took from a drawer in the bath room a cake of pink soap.

"Oh, how nice and sweet that smells!" exclaimed Bunty. "It smells almost good enough to eat, Uncle Wiggily!"

"Soap isn't good to eat, no matter how nice it smells," chuckled Mr. Longears. "Now please stand still, Bunty, while I wash behind your ears."

Uncle Wiggily wet the rag in warm water and rubbed on it some lather of the sweet smelling soap. Then he cleaned Bunty's ears and wrists. He was drying Bunty on the towel, and she was making funny faces when, all of a sudden, up the stairs crept the Bad Old Bob Cat, bringing his sly little tail with him.

"I want to nibble your ears," howled the Bob Cat to Uncle Wiggily. The rabbit gentleman was much frightened. But Bunty picked up the cake of sweet soap and, holding it to the nose of the Bob Cat, she said:

"Smell of that!"

"Oh, what a lovely perfume!" he howled, wrinkling up his nose. "I guess that must be something good to eat. I'll take a few bites of that, and then I'll nibble your ears, Uncle Wiggily! Give that to me!" he cried, most impolitely, and still more rudely, he greedily crammed it into his mouth.

He chewed and chewed and chewed—and then—all of a sudden—

"Wow! Scow! Scoot!" howled the Bob Cat as he found his mouth full of soap suds and lather.

"Oh, what a taste! I'm going home!" And, dripping foam and lather, out of the window jumped the Bob Cat with the taste of soap in his mouth.

"I guess he doesn't want any ears!" laughed Bunty.

"No, indeed!" chuckled the bunny uncle. Then he finished drying the little rabbit girl and took her adventuring with him, buying her some cinnamon jelly beans as a treat. It was a week before the Bob Cat got the taste of soap out of his mouth.

WOULD MEASURE ENERGY OF THOUGHT

Toronto, Aug. 13.—When man works with his body, he gives off more carbon dioxide than when he sits still and uses his brain. It cannot yet be determined how much energy is required when a man adds up a column of figures, but it is of interest to determine, if possible, something of the energy expenditure of nerve tissue in general. As a step in this direction, Prof. G. H. Parker of Howard University has determined the amount of carbon dioxide exhaled by the lateral line nerve of the dogfish, the sciatic nerve of the frog and the ventral chain of the lobster. "The quiescent nerve of the frog produced on the average nine thousandths of a milligram of carbon dioxide per gram of nerve per minute, and this is increased by about twelve per cent when the nerve is active," Prof. Parker told physiologists of the British Association here to-day.

ENGINEERS ASSISTING PUBLIC HEALTH WORK

Toronto, Aug. 13.—That public health is not necessarily a medical science is the opinion of F. A. Dallyn, Provincial Engineer, expressed in a paper read to the engineering section of the British Association here. Mr. Dallyn claimed that such branches as sanitation, the supervision of public water supplies, milk supplies, stream and sewerage disposal, refuse protection, garbage collection and disposal, and municipal sanitation generally, including such projects as fly and mosquito control, require the services of the engineering element is very great. The work in those branches could with advantage be left to the direction of engineers and biologists, releasing the medical personnel for their distinctive fields—hygiene and nutrition.

pre-eminently as the discoverers of the island and Mainland of the Province of British Columbia, the western outpost of that glorious British Empire. Too little recognition has been given in the past to those explorers for their services, but even at this late date, and by the ceremony we are performing to-day, it will be a fitting thought for the future that the monument which has been erected on this historic spot will help to perpetuate the memory of those builders of Empire."

THE MONUMENTS

The original monument erected on an inlet of the San Miguel group says: "Vancouver and Quadra met here in August, 1792, under the treaty between Spain and Great Britain of October, 1790."

Erected by the Washington University State Historical Society, August, 1908.

The new monument has a tablet with the inscription: "Nootka Sound, discovered by Capt. Cook in March, 1778. In June, 1780, Spain took possession and established and maintained a settlement until 1795. The capture of British vessels in 1789 almost led to war, which was avoided by the Nootka Convention, 1790. Vancouver and Quadra met here in August, 1792, to determine the land to be restored under the Convention."

W. R. Lord, who for some years has operated a cannery on an extensive scale in Nootka Sound, has been indefatigable in making the arrangements. Mr. Lord has arranged

TEACHERS RECEIVE HEARTY GREETING

Representatives of Province,
City and B.C. Teachers
Extend Welcome

President Says Aim of Organization is to Embrace Every Qualified Teacher

With 10,000 affiliated teachers belonging to the Canadian Teachers' Federation, H. C. Newland, M.A., of Edmonton, president of the Federation, told the large audience at the initial meeting of the convention here last evening that there were 30,000 teachers in Canada capable of being linked up in such an organization.
He said the Federation would endeavor to bring them all, if qualified, into the fold. "Until that time comes," Mr. Newland stated, "we shall have to spend a great deal of time convincing the people of Canada that education is vitally necessary, and that it must be paid for. By holding such conventions we shall show there is a portion of our Canadian citizenry ready to tackle the education problem seriously."

"We intend to make teaching a real profession, and to interest the people of Canada in education. That may take years to achieve, but if we succeed in awakening a realization by the Canadian people that education is the only salvation for civilization, and that we must have a body of teachers of professional standing as high as that of any of the learned professions, then indeed we will be well rewarded," Mr.
Newland emphasized the necessity for five or six years of training in order that teachers should understand the problems and technique of their profession.

No better convention city could be found than Victoria, he was satisfied.

DR. MACLEAN

Hon. J. D. MacLean, Minister of Education, who extended the welcome on behalf of the Province, expressed the hope that not only would they enjoy their stay, but as teachers would take back to their own Provinces some knowledge of the resources of British Columbia. He illustrated by statistics how the agricultural, lumbering, mining and fisheries resources of the Province had been developed in the last twenty years.

"We have in this Province," stated the Minister, "95,000 pupils enrolled, of whom about ten per cent are in the high and secondary schools. We have in operation 3,118 class-rooms, linked with the school system we have a university, with the fourth largest enrolment in Canada. We have 690 pupils in training in the normal schools, and a number of special schools," said Dr. MacLean, in enumerating what they were.

He next alluded to the teachers' summer schools in Vancouver and Victoria, with 660 teachers attending.
Dr. MacLean made reference to the correspondence course conducted for normal schools, and a number of the Province, serving 260 pupils in elementary grades. "That system is working out very satisfactorily," the Minister added, in concluding with some data on the continuation and other evening schools.

MAYOR'S WELCOME

Mayor Hayward extended a welcome from the City of Victoria, and said the citizens particularly greeted an organization of that nature. It was a tribute to Victoria's popularity that some delegates had come so far to the meeting.

STATUS OF EDUCATION

Edward S. Martin, of Fernie, president of the B. C. Teachers' Federation, said that he had already extended a welcome at the meeting of the Vancouver Teachers' Association on the previous evening. As teachers they had a responsibility for the future of Canada, he observed, in training the children aright. The school took at least as important a part as the home in the training of the children. The ultimate aim of education was to produce citizens, and were they, as citizens, doing it?
No body of people could better claim the ideal of service. Much was heard now of peace propaganda, and what better service could be given by teachers than inculcating a love of peace in the children?

DEAN LAIRD

Dean Sinclair Laird, of Macdonald College, Montreal, emphasized the necessity of uniting the various teachers' federations and alliances in Canada. They had had a wonderful reception across Canada, each Province rivaling the other in hospitality as they came farther West.
The smell of the salt air was delightful to those who were born and reared within the sound of the sea waves. The special trains had been exceptionally well supported, and it was a tribute to the spirit of education that teachers were willing to come across the country to attend a professional gathering during their holidays.

He believed the tour across the Dominion and the knowledge so gained of the spirit of loyalty that existed would be of greatest benefit to the fore the convention this afternoon. Mr. Charlesworth has held every office tion from this meeting and the

Manitoba Teachers' Association, said that the cordial greetings given of the Canadian Pacific Railway

MUSICAL PROGRAMME
The musical programme included

Vocal solos, Miss Helen Starr, T.
Kelway and E. Butterworth; two cellos, Messrs. Drury-Pryce, Messrs. C. Wade and H. Charlesworth were accompanists.

STRESS NEED OF PROFESSIONAL STATUS FOR ALL TEACHERS

Mr. Newland emphasized as a preliminary to the successful functioning of a teachers' professional organization that there should be an official publication similar to the Law Times and medical journals, and he expressed the hope that steps would be taken at the meeting to begin such a journal.

TO CLEAR SLATE

Mr. Newland pointed out that the cardinal principle which had guided the association during the year had been to clear off financial obligations reported at the Montreal convention. He was now able to state that all outstanding obligations of the Canadian Teachers' Federation in the way of arrears of convention expenses at Saskatoon and Montreal had been paid in full.

The president outlined the effort made to prepare a news bulletin which would contain matter to be used by the magazines and official organs of the constituent organizations and which had been in charge of Dr. Hardy as news editor.

Mr. Newland enumerated a lengthy list of organizations throughout the British Empire and the United States with which the Federation had established a connection by interchange of delegates or otherwise.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

A central bureau of information and educational statistics is beginning where it will be possible for teachers in any part of Canada to obtain accurate and up-to-date information by letter or telegram as to school law, teaching conditions, educational administration, salaries, contracts, and so forth in any part of Canada," he remarked. "In this way it may be possible through the constituent provincial organizations to have the school acts or ordinances of the various provinces so amended that the law relating to the rights, duties and obligations of teachers may be standardized throughout Canada."

In alluding to the effort to enlist the support of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, the president said the difficulty seemed to centre round the financial terms of affiliation.

He particularly praised the assistance given him during the year by Dr. Hardy, the Vice-president, and Harry Charlesworth, the secretary.

The president extended an invitation to the representative of the New Brunswick teachers, Dr. B. C.
Foster, of Fredericton, N.B., as a watching delegate. Dr. Foster acknowledged the compliment in taking his seat.

In the absence of the vice-president, Mr. Charlesworth, who chose Lt.-Col. Mitchell, of Toronto, as acting vice-president, and also chose Mr.
Elliott (Manitoba) as assistant secretary.

INVITED TO TORONTO

Greetings were reported from the World's Federation of Educational Associations.

Invitations to meet in Toronto and Winnipeg were read by the secretary for the 1925 convention. Supporting the Toronto invitation were invitations from Premier Ferguson, Mayor Hitts and the Boards of Education.

The secretary outlined the programme for the convention, in relation to its social engagements.

REPORT SHOWS PROGRESS

In his report to the convention
Harry Charlesworth, secretary-treasurer and secretary of the B.C.
Teachers' Federation pointed to the difficulties presented by an organization which attempted to embrace the whole country, with differing local conditions, giving rise to sectional view points, sufficient in themselves to hinder progress, and also subject entirely to provincial administration.

Without, therefore, spectacular progress "the federation has made remarkable strides since its inception," Mr. Charlesworth stated. He traced its beginnings at Winnipeg in 1919 among representatives of the four western provinces, its spread to Ontario and the actual creation of the Canadian Teachers' Federation in Calgary in 1920. Last year Quebec and Ontario were added to the ranks, and he expressed confidence that Nova Scotia and New Brunswick would fall into line this year after the convention. "We already," he added, "have the co-operation and good will of these provinces, and direct affiliation will doubtless soon take place. Each of these years has seen some very definite accomplishment in the interests of the teaching profession, and the progress of education generally, and every teacher in Canada whether a member of the organization or not, has benefited greatly already as a result."

He pointed out to the necessity of creating co-operating committees in the various provinces, using the same means of tabulation, all reporting to a Dominion federation committee.

Causes for congratulation during the year were that it had passed without serious trouble in any province, that a settlement of the Brandon dispute had been brought about through the fine work of the Manitoba Teachers' Association and the members of the Brandon School Board, that the federation had successfully managed two special trains with delegates to the convention, and the increase in membership in the provincial associations.

Mr. Charlesworth reviewed at length the financial position, showing that it had substantially improved since the Montreal meeting of 1923, and now all outstanding obligations had been met. With more fees yet to be received, the bank balance is $4,278.92, out of which have to be paid the cost of the Victoria convention.

In conclusion he said: "I feel confident that the federation is now solidly established with a good financial position, and a bright future assured." After serving each office in the federation, he expressed the opinion that the best had been done in difficult circumstances, and in returning from office, promised his services, which had been continuous since the federation was founded, to his successors. He mentioned he had held office as president, past president and secretary-treasurer during the life of the federation.
